Thank you everyone who signed Trevor's Treaty.

Trevor's Treaty was born from the arrival of Bulldog Rescue's first seriously deformed Lilac Bulldog called Trevor and launched at Crufts in 2019. Realizing that the sudden increase in dogs bred purely for color over health was creating a problem of its own, we realised that something had to be done to not only educate the public about this current fashion trend, but also ask the Kennel Club to rethink their current registration system

The Kennel Club have always maintained that the registration of dogs considered "Colour Not Recognised" (CNR) was not a problem based on the fact that there is no proven evidence to suggest coat colour could have an impact on health (with the exception of Merle). But by enabling registration of these pups has encouraged the breeding of dogs classed as "Rare" endorsed by having the term "Colour Not Recognised" on the registration document. In turn this has meant that the breeders of these dogs can then go onto charge 2, 3, 4 and sometimes 5 times the price of a standard colour bulldog.

In fact, we have seen Standard colour bulldogs registered as CNR dogs simply to inflate the selling price and it is our opinion that until DNA profiles are required at registration there is nothing that can be done to change this.

There is no evidence that coat colour can affect the health of the dog (with the exception of Merle) BUT the onset of indiscriminate breeding simply to create a specific coat colour has had a huge impact on the health of the breed as a whole.

The breeders of these dogs have no other thought over the mating except what the colour of the pups will be. On the one hand the Kennel Club are promoting Health testing and making commitments to the media about how they are committed to improving the health of the Bulldog by investing in and supporting various health testing schemes BUT none of this matters if our gene pool is being contaminated by unhealthy dogs bred for profit by breeders who have no intention of undertaking any form of health testing or to comply with the breed standard.

Many of these litters will have Standard Colour pups within them, these dogs are out there in the gene pool and as the numbers increase the health tested dogs will soon be outnumbered.

As a breed we cannot fight the health argument if the Kennel Club continue to allow the registration of dogs bred purely for profit.

So, what are we asking?

The kennel club have already said they will not stop registering them, so we are asking them to use some of the increased registration revenue to help us pay for the increase in badly bred and now deformed dogs coming into the rescue system.

Black, Black and Tan, Blue (or Lilac) and "Dudley" (i.e. no black pigment) occur naturally in the bulldog but they don't naturally occur very often. The very first breed standard written in 1865 allowed these colours but by 1902 They were written out and considered undesirable and as the standard has been altered throughout the years the undesirability of these colours has never changed. But it is this wording that encourages breeders to class them as “rare” because they can still supply a Kennel Club Registration document at the point of sale.

Trevor’s Treaty is an effort to collect signatures to take to the Kennel Club to ask them to either
